18. Other information:

In the Laboratory of Marine Environmental Science, the marine environment from the open ocean to coastal waters is analyzed in a multifaceted and comprehensive manner using physical and chemical oceanographic techniques. Our research and education aim to secure marine living resources, evaluate the carrying capacity of the marine environment, and conserve the marine environment in biologically productive areas. We seek applicants who research variation of ocean and atmosphere and their interaction from the mid-latitude North Pacific to the Arctic Ocean and their impacts on the global environment. We are particularly interested in candidates who can contribute to education and research in the field, including the use of the training vessels of Hokkaido University and other vessels. We are also interested in candidates who actively participate in domestic and international research projects and who will actively contribute to the management of the university.

(1) Current members of the Laboratory of Marine Environmental Science (as of March 25, 2025):

Professors: KASAI Akihide, KUDO Isao (will retire in March 2025), OOKI Atsushi,
 UENO Hiromichi

Associate Professors: ISODA Yutaka, NOMURA Daiki, YOSHIMURA Takeshi
 Assistant Professor: ONISHI Hiroji

(2) Working conditions follow the work rules set by Hokkaido University

(3) The faculty is currently recruiting a female full associate professor under the provisions of Article 8 of the Equal Employment Opportunity Law, aiming to realize the spirit of 'Hokkaido University's Statement on the Promotion of Diversity & Inclusion,' and actively address the low percentage of a female faculty member.

(4) Hokkaido University is committed to supporting all researchers in balancing their education/research activities with their personal lives and creating an environment where they can be active. For specific information, please visit the DEI website (<https://www.dei.hokudai.ac.jp/en/>).

(5) Job responsibilities will include engaging in the following tasks together with other faculty members: Planning for addressing the low percentage of female faculty members in the Faculty of Fisheries Sciences. Given the increasing number of female students participating in field training conducted aboard training vessels by the Graduate School and School of Fisheries Sciences, we seek individuals who can contribute to the guidance and support of female students during such onboard activities
